

Hosokawa Micron Extend Customer Support Services

Hosokawa Micron Ltd, leading supplier of integrated powder processing systems and component equipment has appointed Gary Roberts, as Area Sales Manager for performance improvement services, aftersales service and toll processing.

Responding to customer demands to get the best out of their existing processing equipment Hosokawa Micron has recently launched a Performance Improvement Service, which analyses existing plant operational data to identify areas where production advances can be made. Gary is available to demonstrate, to manufacturers, the system and how it's use can create cost savings, end product quality improvements and increased throughputs.

Gary brings to this new role his extensive engineering experience and an understanding of the critical benefits of equipment service and maintenance that can maintain production levels and optimum equipment lifespan, particularly important in today's processing environment.

'Hosokawa Micron's After Sales Service and Performance Improvement Services are now available for existing Hosokawa customers and also those operating non-Hosokawa equipment.' explains Gary, 'So now all processors have access to Hosokawa Micron's extensive powder processing systems expertise and technical know-how.'
